

Wildlife Walk

Last Sunday was such a beautiful spring day, five couples took the opportunity to take a walk through the woods, enjoying the pleasant day and admiring nature's newly sprouted beauty. The forest was alive with wildlife, some recently emerged from their snug winter burrows, others returning from their long winter migration. They were pleased to see unusual wildlife during their walk, each couple spotting both an animal and a bird not seen as commonly as doves or squirrels.

Determine the full name of each couple and the type of animal and bird that each couple saw.

1. Tom, who wasn't married to Olivia, saw a fox. The couple that saw the beaver also saw wild turkeys.
2. Patricia Carver didn't see the pheasant. Paul didn't see the eagle. The Jones's saw a coyote. Jim's last name wasn't White.
3. The Porters didn't see the swans. Tom wasn't married to Sandra and his last name wasn't Jones. The Connors spotted a rabbit.
4. The couple who saw the coyote didn't see the swan. Mike, whose last name wasn't Connor, didn't see the woodchuck. Sandra saw the geese.
5. Peter and his wife Joanna didn't see the wild turkeys. Jim, whose last name wasn't Jones, saw the pheasant but not the woodchuck.
6. Marjorie White didn't see the swans. Paul Porter didn't see the beaver.
